Never ask another person's advice about anything God makes you decide before Him. If you ask advice, you will almost always side with Satan.

God may tell you to do a certain thing and others don't understand because He has not revealed the same thing to them. Many times they look at the situation through fleshly eyes and come to the conclusion that what God has told you to do is impossible; therefore, they try to discourage you from even starting it.

But to really follow God fully you must let Him shine his bright light into the deepest recesses of your soul, and that is sometimes a painful thing.

In the past I have been much more concerned over what others thought about me than what God thought about me. Because of this, deep down I think I may have developed an attitude of thinking that God was pleased with me because of all my good works.

But in reality my life was full of bright white light on the top and then had a lot of the black spaces below. I hadn't even realized some of the areas where I needed change. Its funny how we can talk ourselves into believing just about anything, or choose to only concentrate on the "good stuff." It is easy to compare yourself to another person and think of yourself as more spiritual or holy.

I learned quickly that the Holy Spirit can be very good at revealing those things that keep you from having God's best, but you have to genuinely want Him to do it.

Because of pride we sometimes try to keep those dark areas hidden so that no other person knows who we really are. We seem to forget that God knows and He is the most important one.

Don't be afraid to place your life into the Potter's Hands and let Him mold and shape you into a Christian who can do great and mighty works for God's Kingdom. This kind of Christian life will never be boring or mundane because you will continuously be able to see God's Hand at work in your life.

Let God grow you in a new and out-of-the-ordinary way so that your life can yield maximum fruit.
