Have you been on a fishing trip and caught enough fish to have some for dinner and to preserve a few for tasty meals in the future. You could freeze them - but wait, have you ever tried canned fish? It's delicious when done correctly and has a longer storage life. Plus it is easy if you have basic canning gear. Another time canning fish comes in handy is when there is a lengthy power outage and fish you have in the freezer starts to thaw. If you find a sale on fresh fish at your local fish market, you can take advantage of the sale and stock up on some excellent eating just by canning.
