Burn! Leadership Myths in Flames Mitch McCrimmon

A revolutionary approach to the concept of leadership, one that makes sense of how leadership can be bottom-up as well as top-down. Challenges conventional wisdom to create a powerful new way of looking at leadership that greatly enhances the empowerment and engagement of all employees with the courage to take a leadership stand. Bound to be controversial as it argues that leadership is just a matter of promoting new directions, that it has nothing to do with managing a team to get things done. That is a management task where management is upgraded to be empowering, supportive and facilitative, not merely controlling.
